Greetings from your librarian!

Dear Linguistics Faculty:

I hope this newsletter finds you well. In this back-to-school edition of the Libraries Newsletter, you'll find:

- New Libraries system is now live
- August 23 Event: Getting to Know Your Librarian
- Instructional needs survey from Special Collections
- Placing items on course reserve
- Library instruction for the fall semester
- Featured resource: Applied Science & Technology Source
- Featured new books

Elizabeth Galoozis
Librarian for Linguistics
(213) 821-0097
galoozis@usc.edu
VKC Library, B38b

New Libraries system is now live

The Libraries have now fully implemented Primo, a new catalog
Orders for new materials are currently on hold until further notice.

The MyAccount feature in the new system will allow you to save items, as well as searches, which you can run again as needed.

Citation links stored in RefWorks accounts will continue to work in Primo.

Information about all your book loans, holds, etc., will transfer to the new system.

You can sign in to your library account with your USC username and password, and no longer need the barcode on your USC ID.

If in the past you included links to individual items (books, ebooks, DVDs, etc.) in Blackboard, handouts, course syllabi, etc., they will no longer be valid. If you prefer to continue providing links to individual items, I recommend searching for them again and using new links.

You are invited to an event at the USC Libraries, Getting to Know your Librarians, on August 23.

- Learn about the wide variety of resources and services the Libraries have to offer - from in-depth research consultations to specialized collections.
- Talk one-on-one with librarians with expertise in your discipline and other related disciplines you may be working with.
- Enjoy wine and refreshments in Doheny Library’s beautiful Intellectual Commons.

Details: Wednesday, August 23, 4:00-6:00 PM (drop in anytime!)

Doheny Memorial Library Intellectual Commons (room 233)

Please RSVP at this link.

Instructional needs survey from Special Collections

Special Collections is conducting a short survey this semester to assess and address instructors’ teaching needs with rare books and archival materials. Please let them know what you think!

https://goo.gl/forms
Any lists or RSS feeds you had saved in the previous system, Summon, will no longer be retrievable.

Instructional services for the fall

As always, please contact me if you’d like for me to consult on:

- incorporating research skills and concepts into assignments
- coming into part or all of a class session for instruction in research skills and concepts
- incorporating library resources into your syllabus

Placing materials on course reserve

It’s that time of year again...to put physical and electronic library items on reserve for your class. If you haven’t done so yet, you can find out how, here: http://libguides.usc.edu/reserves/ares-overview

Featured resource: Applied Science & Technology Source

Applied Science & Technology Source offers extensive coverage of research and development within the applied sciences and computing disciplines. This resource offers full text for almost 1,200 journals, citations to millions of articles. The content within Applied Science & Technology Source derives from numerous sources, including leading trade journals, professional and technical society journals, and conference proceedings.

Featured New Books