TIME SAVING TIP #7:

EASY STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTIONS
TO ACCESS THE ADAM MATTHEW PRIMARY SOURCE COLLECTIONS

USC Libraries offers access to the Adam Matthew Primary Source Collections which includes digitized resources from archival collections from around the world!

To access the Adam Matthew Database first go to the USC Libraries webpage (libraries.usc.edu). Below the search bar select Databases (outlined in RED below).
From there you will be taken our A-Z Database Listing. Search Adam Matthew in the Search Bar and click Go.

The first result will be the Adam Matthew Primary Source Collections. Click on the link to start the log-in process.
You are now in the Adam Matthew Database. You can either browse collections from the main page or search across all collections using the search bar.

African American Communities
Focusing predominantly on Atlanta, Chicago, St Louis, Brooklyn, and towns and cities in North Carolina this collection presents multiple aspects of the African American community through personal diaries and scrapbooks, pamphlets, newspapers and periodicals, correspondence, official records and in-depth oral histories, revealing the prevalent challenges of racism, discrimination and integration, and a unique American culture and identity.

Age of Exploration
Explore five centuries of journeys across the globe, scientific discoveries, the expansion of European colonialism, conflict over territories and trade routes, and decades-long search and rescue attempts in this multi-archive collection dedicated to the history of exploration.

Once you have found a collection of interest you can read the introduction, browse all the documents in the collection, view maps, and more! Click the menu button (highlighted in RED below) to see more options.
Enjoy browsing the Adam Matthew Primary Course Collections and using their resources in your own research and in your courses!
